Dear Justin,

We have worked with Chris Miller for months trying to find a good fit for a partner for our orthopedic group in south central Kentucky. Chris has done a great job for us. He brought multiple candidates all of whom were a good fit for our practice. Chris was always quite professional and was able to deal with the multiple personalities involved with such a search process.

I could not have asked for someone to be more helpful, patient and persistent. I certainly would endorse Chris, we are all well pleased with his approach and I think my comments would be echoed by our hospital as well as they were intimately involved with the search. I will be glad to discuss in detail if any question should arise.

Sincerely,

Barret Lessenberry, MD
